

Contents

Key to the Table of Contents

Topics explored in each column and for whom they may be relevant are indicated by icons.

 Singles

 Couples

 Love & Romance

 Commitment

 Sex & Sensuality

 Money

Acknowledgements		5
Preface		7
Contents		13
	Part I
    	1 Love will cool if Cupid's arrow finds the mark but once a year	19
  	2 Harmonizing two frequencies essential to good relationship	23
   	3 Is the elixir of love in food, or are aphrodisiacs hopeful hooley?	27
   	4 June bride pops the question: Why do we weep at a wedding?	33
   	5 Nature's paradox: Men want to love more than just one woman	37
   	6 Money almost broke them up but love taught them to manage it	41
  	7 Being married doesn't mean that you and spouse are joined at the hip	47
   	8 Enjoy an afternoon dalliance even if you're happily married	51
  	9 Do not avoid the tender trap as it's a good place to get caught	55
    	10 The holidays are inevitable, so make use of that mistletoe	61
   	11 I'll hold you. You'll hold me. Take my hand, as one we'll be	65
  	12 Have you got sex on the brain? Well, you're certainly not alone	69

Part II

	13 Master the fine art of cuddling through long, cold winter nights	77
	14 Dive into the realm of the senses and, please, peel me a grape	81
	15 A romance of over six decades deserves a daughter's homage	85
	16 Ask, 'Is sexual chemistry real?' and you've yet to experience it	91
	17 Ambiguous and potentially risky, but flirtation has its rewards	95
	18 Forget all of your old excuses, put a priority on your pleasure	99
	19 Sweet are the memories of the lips that first kissed ours	105
	20 Woman uses her feminine wiles and man is apt to be beguiled	109
	21 Say it the old fashioned way. Express your love in a letter	113
	22 Somewhere out there is a man who holds my heart in his hands	119
	23 A sidewalk sex clinic offers lots of laughter and learning	123
	24 In June, when wedding bells ring, singles are pressed to marry too	127

Part III

	25 Look out for Number One and relationships suffer	135
	26 Virginity isn't all it once was. What does it mean to us now?	139
	27 After twenty years of marriage new life and new loves lie ahead	143
	28 Courtship rituals and dating: Just hanging out or mating?	149
	29 Does unequal division of labor create division between lovers?	153
	30 One-on-one relationships versus consensual non-monogamous love	157
	31 Talking about sex with your lover adds to the pleasure	163
	32 Bring on the dancing girls! 'Dirty dancing' gains respect	167
	33 A lady charmer takes off his 'date face' and looks at self	171
	34 Better loving through technology, robots for your personal pleasure	177
	35 Improve your love relationships by using the Law of Attraction	181
	36 Why do people want to have sex? For reasons varied and complex	185
	Index of Illustrations	191
	About the Artist	193